ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE ON GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATION

AB 1965 (Aguiar-Curry) – As Amended April 4, 2018

SUBJECT: Gambling: gambling enterprise employee

SUMMARY: Excludes waiters, waitresses, and secretaries from the definition of “gambling enterprise employee” within the Gambling Control Act (Act).

EXISTING LAW:

- 1) Existing law, the Act, provides for the licensure of certain individuals and gambling establishments involved in various gambling activities, and for the regulation of those activities, by the CGCC.
- 2) Provides for the enforcement of those gambling activities by Department of Justice (DOJ).
- 3) Prohibits the commission from issuing a gambling license unless it is satisfied that the applicant, among other things, is a person of good character, honesty, and integrity.
- 4) Defines “gambling enterprise employee” as any natural person employed in the operation of a gambling enterprise, including, without limitation, dealers, floor personnel, security employees, countroom personnel, cage personnel, collection personnel, surveillance personnel, data-processing personnel, appropriate maintenance personnel, waiters and waitresses, and secretaries, or any other natural person whose employment duties require or authorize access to restricted gambling establishment areas.
- 5) Requires a gambling enterprise employee –prior to employment –to obtain a valid work permit issued by the county, city, or city and county. Should the county, city, or city and county not have a work permit process in place, or where a locally issued work permit is not required, an application for a work permit shall be made to the CGCC.
- 6) Defines “Key employee” as any natural person employed in the operation of a gambling enterprise in a supervisory capacity or empowered to make discretionary decisions that regulate gambling operations, including, without limitation, pit bosses, shift bosses, credit executives, cashier operations supervisors, gambling operation managers and assistant managers, managers or supervisors of security employees, or any other natural person designated as a key employee by the department.
- 7) Requires every key employee to apply for and obtain a key employee license from the CGCC.

FISCAL EFFECT: Unknown

COMMENTS:

Purpose of the bill: According to the author: “The Gambling Control Act regulating card clubs in the state has been in effect for nearly twenty years. During that period of time both regulators and the industry have learned a variety of things which could be improved to result in stronger and more efficient regulation of the industry. It is important that provisions of the Act be updated, based on experience, to provide regulators with additional expertise and resources to improve field enforcement of the Act, while also addressing the significant backlog of license applications experienced under the current Act.”

Background: Prior to 1998, California's gambling industry was essentially unregulated. In 1984, the Legislature enacted the "Gaming Registration Act," which required the Attorney General's office to provide uniform, minimum regulation of California card rooms. However, the scope of the Attorney General's authority was extremely limited and funding was inadequate. Recognizing the need for broader oversight of California's gambling industry, the Legislature enacted the "Gambling Control Act” in 1997.

The Act provides CGCC with jurisdiction over the operation of gambling establishments in California. The Act requires every owner, lessee, or employee of a gambling establishment to obtain and maintain a valid state gambling license and assigns CGCC the responsibility of assuring that gambling licenses are not issued to, or held by, unqualified or disqualified persons, or by persons whose operations are conducted in a manner that is harmful to the public health, safety, or welfare. The Act directs CGCC to issue licenses only to those persons of good character, honesty and integrity, whose prior activities, criminal record, if any; reputation, habits and associations do not pose a threat to the public interest of this state. The Bureau of Gambling Control (Bureau), within the Department of Justice (DOJ), conducts background and field investigations and enforces the provisions of the Act in this regard.

Work Permits: The Act requires that all individuals employed as gambling enterprise employees hold a valid work permit. The work permit is issued by the local jurisdiction. Should the city or county not have a work permit process in place, or where a locally issued work permit is not required, an application for a work permit shall be made to the CGCC.

The process to obtain a work permit varies depending on the city or county in which the application is submitted. In the event the work permit must be obtained from the state, the process entails a fingerprint scan and an ordinary criminal history background check performed by the Bureau. The work permit application process is streamlined and less stringent than the process to obtain a key employee license or any other state gambling license, which requires a deeper background investigation by the Bureau. By changing the definition of “gambling enterprise employee”, this bill would remove the work permit requirement specifically for waiters and waitresses, and secretaries.

Licensing Backlog: A significant backlog has existed within the licensing division of the Bureau – reaching nearly 3,000 gaming license applications that need to be investigated by the Bureau and ultimately approved or denied by the CGCC. The backlog is due to a combination of additional responsibilities being assumed by the Bureau through the Governor’s 2013 Reorganization Plan, a more complex investigation process, and an increase in the number of applicants.

In an attempt to begin reducing the backlog, the 2015-2016 State Budget included twenty full-time positions to the Bureau’s licensing division. The Bureau has since filled 19 of 20 positions. As of March 31, 2018, the Bureau has completed 2,762 cases so far this fiscal year. However, they have received 2,323 new applications from July 1, 2017 through March 31, 2018. The current backlog is 1,535 applications as of March 31, 2018.
